The George Washington University Elliott School of International Affairs and School of Public Health and Health Services collaborate in offering a dual degree program leading to a Master of Public Health (MPH) and the Master of Arts (MA) from the following academic programs

MA/MPH Areas of Combined Study
School of Public Health and Health Services Master of Public Health (MPH)	Elliott School of International Affairs Master of Arts (MA)
• Global Health Communication	Asian Studies
• Global Health Design, Monitoring and Evaluation	European and Eurasian Studies
• Global Health Management	International Affairs
• Global Health Policy	International Development Studies
• Global Health Strategies	Latin American & Hemispheric Studies

The dual MA/MPH degree requires a total of 67 credits to complete. Students electing Global Health as their Elliott School Master of Arts Major Field can use the 12 major field credits (taken in the Department of Global Health) to fulfill both the MA and MPH. Six additional credits of coursework in the Elliott School may also be applied toward the MPH as electives.

Students applying to the MA/MPH program must submit application materials to both the Elliott School of International Affairs and the School of Public Health and Health Services and be accepted by both schools. A full-time student (taking about 10 credits per semester) may be able to complete both degrees within three years by attending summer sessions. Students accepted into the dual degree program may complete each degree separately.

Curriculum

The following is a summary of the requirements for each degree as they pertain to the dual degree program. For more detailed information on degree requirements or course selections, applicants should refer to the materials provided by each School for their individual programs.

Master of Public Health – Global Health

The Master of Public Health degree is 45 credits. For more information contact:

Dual Degree Rules and Regulations

Students in the dual degree program must fulfill the requirements of both degrees. Students are expected to work with program directors or advisors in each School to insure that all requirements are completed. Approval by program directors or advisors in both Schools is required for any overlap courses designated as meeting the requirements of both degree programs.

Language Proficiency

All Elliott School Master of Arts programs in the dual degree program require that students achieve reading and speaking proficiency in a second modern language before the end of their program of study. Students are given a diagnostic language examination during graduate student orientation at the beginning of their first semester of study at the Elliott School. Students are required to pass a reading and speaking proficiency examination during their last 20 hours at the Elliott School. Failing the language proficiency examination three times results in irrevocable dismissal from the program.

Up to six credits of language course work may be included in the MA program, however, none of these credits can be applied to the MPH.

Students for whom English is not their native language must take an English language exam. This is in addition to the TOEFL exam taken prior to admission. Students are advised to fulfill this requirement within the first year of the program.

Graduation

Students completing the requirements of one degree program may apply to graduate with that degree prior to completing the second degree. Students may also formally request withdrawal from either program at any time to pursue a single degree in the other program. All work on each degree must be completed within five years from the student's entry into that degree program.

Admissions

Admission Prerequisites

MA programs: Applicants are expected to have completed the equivalent of two years of formal instruction in a second modern language.

MPH programs: Applicants are required to have had some significant cross-cultural or global health experience.

New Applicants

Applications are made separately, but at the same time, to both the Elliott School of International Affairs and the School of Public Health and Health Services (Apply to SPHHS through the national application, SOPHAS and complete the SPHHS secondary application). Applicants must meet all the application requirements of both Schools. Applicants should note their interest in the dual degree programs on both applications.

Applicants accepted by both Schools are admitted to the dual degree program. However, it is also possible for an applicant to be offered admission to one School, but not the other; or to be denied admission to either School. Applicants admitted to both programs must notify both Schools of their decision to enter their respective degree programs and the dual degree program. Applicants may also decide to accept admission to only one School. In that case, this decision must also be conveyed to both Schools.

Current Students

Students already enrolled in either degree program can also apply for admission to the other school and to the dual degree program. Such applications will be considered as part of the regular admissions process, and according to regular admissions processes and requirements. To be a part of the dual degree program, applicants cannot be in the other degree after a degree has been completed at the first School.

Tuition and Fees

Students pay course and credit charges for all courses at the approved rate for Master of Public Health and Master of Arts courses respectively.

Elliott School Fee

All students in the dual degree program must pay the Elliott School Master of Arts fee of $3600.00. New students pay this fee over their first four semesters at the rate of $900 per semester; fee is due in full prior to graduation. Continuing students entering from SPHHS will pay $1800.00 per semester in the first two semesters after entering the program.

Elliott School Fellowships

Elliott School fellowships may be used by students in the dual degree program as long as the student remains in the MA program. However, students selecting to concentrate during their first year on coursework entirely in the School of Public Health and Health Services will have the application of their fellowships delayed until the second year when they begin their MA coursework. Fellowships will cease if the student withdraws from the dual degree program in favor of a single degree from SPHHS. No Elliott School tuition fellowships are available for continuing students entering from SPHHS. Such students are eligible for other grants awarded through the Elliott School (such as internship or summer language study grants).
